THE BLUE MOUNTAINS BOTANIC GARDEN PRESENTS

BIRDS FROM LIFE

AN EXHIBITION BY FIONA LUMSDEN

Wednesday 3 February – Monday 29 February 2016 • 9.30am – 4.30pm

Bird artist Fiona Lumsden has spent decades tracking down and studying Australian birds within the context of their natural environment. Her paintings bring many elements together to create small insights into the world of the bird. She has built this series of lively sketches and paintings of birds from direct experience in the field.

Join Fiona for a nature art workshop

Sunday 28 February 2016 • 10am – 3pm

Join artist Fiona Lumsden for an introduction to capturing life-filled depictions of quick-silver avian subjects. Learn how to balance both accuracy and aesthetics – keeping your eye on the special character of each bird species. Understand the structure and the particular poses and habits of birds in the wild. Build up the knowledge that informs good bird art creation and try your hand at capturing these challenging but very beautiful subjects on paper.

$95 per person. Bookings essential.
Materials list provided with your booking confirmation.
